Great Central Empire Rejoices Over Success of Effort To Boost Price of Big Products.

Kansas City, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A spirit of jubilation like that of Armistice Day in 1918 swelled and billowed across the southwest today as an empire built with wheat and oil hailed 85-cent oil and wheat 40 percent more valuable than it was only a month ago.

Long Struggle Upward

Oil prices, which had been so low that a barrel of crude brought more than a gallon of retail gasoline, had straggled upward during a month of strict rationing backed by military force, to price which Andrew L. Rowley, managing editor of the Oil and Gas Journal, saw as a permanent advance to be bolstered by further advances. "Conditions justify it," he said.

Wheat Prices, Which Had Fallen to Such Heart-Breaking Depths That Farmers' Returns Were Barely Enough to Meet Production Charges, If That Much, Had Climbed Up 40 Percent, and Frank A. Thies, president of the Kansas City Board of Trade, said wheat, with impressive leadership, was showing the way to other commodities.

'The value of the advance,' he added, 'cannot be expressed in the millions of dollars of potential wealth it has added to the farmer's pocket power. The value of its effect in restoring confidence to other commodities, to business and individuals, would increase such a sum many times.'

The turn in oil prices, after months of discouragement and tribulation, was credited largely to the interstate agreement on production of output, entered into by Texas, Oklahoma and Oklahoma. Initiated by Continental Oil, the jump to an 85-cent price was made almost at once by Barnsdall, Wilcox, Phillips and Vickers interests.

Meanwhile the three states of the midcontinent area took steps further to tighten the embargo on oil production. Thurman Hall, of the Kansas Public Service commission, said "the oil industry is now in a healthier condition than it has been for several years," but, feeling the Saturday advance of 15 cents a barrel too small.

The foreign office discredited the dispatch, saying there were no indications here of any reason making necessary the movement of Japanese troops to Harbin. ### Reports that Russians were supplying arms to General Man-Chan-shan, head of the Heilungkiang government with headquarters at Tsitsihar, continue to reach Tokyo.

The reports have been categorically denied by L. M. In it Japan called Moscow's attention to persistent rumors of the massing of Russian troops at both the eastern and western Manchurian borders.

Low Prices To Attract Many Thousand Buyers On Greater Atlanta Day

Thousands of extraordinary bargains were offered the buying public of Atlanta and the surrounding territory through The Sunday Constitution, and thousands will pour into the shopping district this morning to take advantage of the opportunity.

Merchants and business establishments all over the city were quick to see the great advantages afforded in such an event and went about telling people of their offerings in a big way through advertisements in Sunday's Constitution. Many expressed the opinion that the event would help materially in improving business conditions here.

The prices that will be in effect today are the lowest that will be offered during the week by the merchants that are co-operating with The Constitution in staging the event, according to the pledge they have signed.

Persons interested in economizing cannot afford to overlook the great opportunities that will be afforded them today. Prices have been made attractive and the merchants are expecting the stores to be crowded throughout the day.

Almost every line of merchandise from household necessities to automobiles and numbers of other commodities will be included in the outstanding offerings made through the advertising columns of The Constitution yesterday, and they were so impressive that they could not be overlooked.

In order to take full advantage of the great opportunities offered, an early start will be absolutely essential, and those who fail to make a complete tour of the entire shopping district will overlook undoubtedly the greatest value-giving event of the season.

To feature these one-day low prices many of the stores will have special displays for the event, showing the new fall and winter merchandise. Ready-to-wear, millinery, drygoods, groceries, shoes, rugs, furniture, automobiles and numbers of other commodities will be included in the special offerings.

Wise shoppers will take advantage of the opportunities offered today and spend the entire day in the stores. Be there to get your share.

Roosevelt Policy Flayed by Smith; Cermak 'Neutral'

Chicago Mayor Announces Wet of 'Smith Type' Is Needed by Democrats To Win Next Year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith's criticism of state administrative policies of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today opened the way to speculation as to their respective parts in the 1932 presidential campaign as Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, asserted the democratic nominee must be a "drinking wet" of the "Smith type."

Mr. Smith's criticism of Governor Roosevelt's state taxation policy and his opposition to the Roosevelt-sponsored $19,000,000 state reforestation amendment to be voted on Tuesday is expected to receive a reply from Mr. Roosevelt when he speaks at Poughkeepsie tomorrow night.

Mayor Cermak, arriving here with a party of Illinois democrats, asserted the party's leaders in that state would insist on a presidential candidate to hold the Illinois vote following. He intimated Illinois would follow Mr. Smith should he oppose Mr. Roosevelt's nomination only if that candidate were a "drinking wet."

If Al Smith should be opposed to Governor Roosevelt because he is not wet enough, that would be one thing," Cermak said. "We cannot afford to push forward upon prohibition or make any compromise with the drys who ran out on Smith in 1928."

There is sentiment in Illinois, the Chicago mayor added, for former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, Governor Roosevelt and Governor Smith.

"A great many people think Smith could be elected this time," he added, but he emphasized that J. Hamilton Lewis, senator from Illinois, was the first choice of the democrats of his state. Lewis, he said, typified the "wets" of the "Al Smith type" and would back the backing of the Illinois democratic delegation in the national convention as long as they believed the senator had a chance of winning.

Smith, he explained, is as "wet" as Smith and as popular with his home state constituents. Lewis carried Illinois by 750,000 votes over Mrs. Ruth McCormick last election. Herbert Hoover defeated Smith in Illinois by 400,000 in the 1928 presidential poll.

Mr. Smith's attack, called by political observers his "first direct criticism" of Roosevelt's state administration, was directed at the New York governor's state taxation policy. He coupled this with an appeal to the nation to prepare for the 1932 presidential campaign.

Smith included his attack in an address last night at Tammany's final rally preceding Tuesday's election. He discussed at length the $19,000,000 state reforestation issue he previously had opposed, but aroused more attention by his attack on Roosevelt's taxation program.

The governor, Smith said, "was conferring with the chairman of the committee on taxation, Senator Mack, of Westchester county, and they

Pantages Will Face Jury Again Today

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(UP)—Alexander Pantages' second trial for an alleged attack upon Eunice Pringle, 19-year-old servant girl, started in superior court tomorrow.

Pantages was convicted at his first trial in October, 1929, but appealed to the state supreme court, which granted a new trial on the ground that the trial judge erred in excluding testimony concerning Miss Pringle's character.

'TERRORISM' HIT IN KEY ADDRESS

Mayor Launches Attack on Church Leaders, Urges State Control Over Sale of Liquor.

Key Assails 'Terrorism.'

Another development Sunday was the assault by the mayor as teacher of his downtown interdenominational Sunday school class on what he termed "terrorism," and his recommendation that the city government should get into the liquor business and control the sale of intoxicants.

Key's attack came during his denunciation of the dry laws at his interdenominational Sunday school class at the Capitol theater, and was featured by a demand to know "if this same solution (referring to the outline of his plan) would cause a man to be fired from a Sunday school class."

About 1,350 attended the class.

He was applauded many times as he said that the mayor as teacher of the committee would be glad to have the co-operation of Mr. Manget. Alderman Alvin Richards said, "We are pleased that he has decided at last to act the part of a good citizen and help us clean up the police department. We have asked him for any information he had before. He has agreed to furnish it now."

"Speaking as chairman of the police committee of council, I can say that the committee will be glad to have the co-operation of Mr. Manget," Alderman Alvin Richards said. "We are pleased that he has decided at last to act the part of a good citizen and help us clean up the police department. We have asked him for any information he had before. He has agreed to furnish it now."

Beavers Promises Co-operation.

"I will prefer charges against every man Mr. Manget names and force him to stand trial, and if there are Beavers said, "We are trying to dry up the department and Atlanta. As a good citizen of Atlanta, Mr. Manget should understand that any information he has which would assist us in that work."

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—When boarded the first train for Philadelphia, at Richmond, Va., a doctor gave the child less than an hour to live.

Cohen telegraphed to Washington for a plane to be ready to carry on. An ambulance behind a police motorcycle escort sped from the Washington railroad station to the aviation field.

V. R. Lucas, veteran pilot, and his plane negotiated from the flying field to Camden, N. J., in 1 hour and 2 minutes.

The child still gasped feebly. Once again the police sirens cleared the way for the ambulance, which sped to Jefferson hospital here, where surgeons were ready.

More than an hour later the bean was removed.

Pneumonia, however, had developed.

The girl, authorities said, related that she accompanied Mrs. Maddux, who lived in Webster Groves, another suburb, to the woods, where Mrs. Maddux attempted to kill herself. The suicide attempt failed, she said, and Mrs. Maddux asked her to kill her, whereupon she took the razor from Mrs. Maddux's hand and slashed her throat.

FOUR ITALIANS HURT*IN FASCIST DISORDERS

PARIS, Nov. 1.—(P)—Four Italians were wounded seriously and others were knocked about in clashes between fascists and anti-fascists on French territory today.

Anti-fascists interrupted a black shirt fete at Chambéry, near the Franco-Italian frontier, with cries of "Down with the Duce!" A melee followed in which Italian Vice Consul Lucieri was stabbed in the head and two consular attaches were wounded.

Fist fights broke out at Nice where Luigi Lajacono, fascist deputy, surrounded by 20 black shirts brought from Rome to attend the inauguration of a monument to war dead drew a counter demonstration from anti-fascists, who shouted "Long live Italy, down with fascism."

French police quieted the disturbance, but later one man, attacked by a number of others, fired a pistol, seriously wounding one man.

STANHOPE, N. J., Nov. 1.—(UP)—Two airplanes flying at terrific speed collided over the airport here late today.

Edward Wolf, Pine Brook, N. J., brought his damaged plane to a safe landing and was not hurt.

The two pilots were engaged in a 25-mile race, the feature of an air meet.

Life of Thomas A. Edison

BY DAVID WILSON.

(Copyright by The Constitution and the N. A. A. Inc.)

Chapter XV.

Trying Financial Times.

In the late '90s, Thomas Edison designed and built his own plant, and in five years was the fifth largest cement producer in the country. But this project, like the mining venture, offers no such drama to the layman as the better known Edison discoveries.

The storage battery is a different story. Here was the Edison of story-book myths at his best.

Storage batteries, in 1900, were cumbersome, dangerous affairs which required the most careful attention. They broke easily. The acid was always spilling. Slight overcharges, or a little too much of a drain, ruined them.

Starts Hunt. "I don't think nature would be so unkind as to withhold the secret of a good storage battery if a real earnest hunt for it were made," Edison told a friend. "I am going to hunt for it."

An amusing result came about six years later. A traveler, forced to pass over one of the roughest and ruttiest roads of northern New Jersey, was likely for a period of 50 days in 1906 to see the astonishing sight of a demure-looking electric automobile designed for decorous behavior on city streets, bumping and rumbling over the roughest stretches at the highest speed consistent with safety. If the car came to a stretch of good road, it would turn around and take the bad stretch again.

Half a dozen cars, equipped with the new Edison storage batteries, were undergoing 5,000-mile road tests to see if the batteries would stand up under the strain. The cars were ruined; the drivers were never the same again. But the batteries stood up.

Between the start of the storage battery work in 1900 and these tests, some 45,000 experiments had been conducted by Edison and his assistants in search of a fool-proof and efficient battery. In the next four years 5,000 more experiments were made. Then the battery was ready, and it seemed likely at the time to revolutionize motoring, because it was so much lighter per horsepower than any other battery on the market.

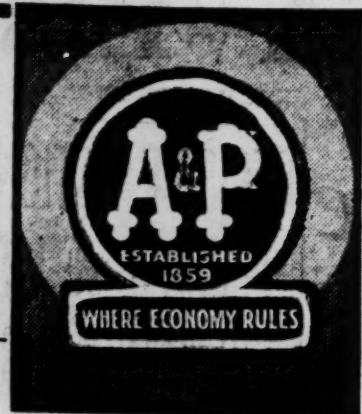

Success. The Edison battery used a steel case instead of the much heavier lead. The liquid content was a non-corrosive solution of potash. The electrodes were iron and nickel, especially designed and mounted after thousands of experiments. From the day it was put on the market the battery was a success. Edison chose to manufacture it himself, instead of selling his patents.

But large-scale production had hardly gotten well started when electric automobiles began to fade out of the picture. Improvements in the gasoline car, especially in the self-starter, caused electric cars to lose popularity rapidly, even in cities. Electric automobiles had formed the chief field for the Edison batteries, which were not markedly superior to the sulphuric acid type for use in the starting and lighting system of gasoline cars.

Plenty of uses for the battery remained to be sure; electric trucks still are widely used, and outside the automotive field the Edison batteries are in demand. But the decline of the electric automobile cut Edison's profits tremendously. Edison believed, to the end of his life, that electric cars were superior to gasoline vehicles for use in cities. years of neglect, is taken up again by Edison under spur of competition.

PINCHOT OUTLINES JOBLESS PROGRAM

Governor Calls Special Session To Help Relieve Unemployment.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP) Governor Gifford Pinchot, in issuing a proclamation calling a special session of the Pennsylvania legislature, revealed tonight the details of his plan for the relief of unemployment in the state.

The plan, to be presented to the legislature when it convenes Monday night, includes the following proposals:

1—An act empowering municipalities to borrow money for unemployment relief, one-half of which money would be repaid later by the state.

2—An increase in the state gasoline tax from 3 cents to 5 cents for the next two years.

3—A tax, amount unspecified, on cigarettes.

4—A tax on billboards and on the business of outdoor advertising.

5—Granting of permission to municipal and county authorities to postpone sales of property for tax sales under certain conditions during periods of depressed business conditions.

While the governor in his proclamation did not estimate amount of money which would be available for unemployment relief under his plan, he previously had estimated it at from $20,000,000 to $40,000,000.

In addition to the income from the special forms of taxation, the state also would derive from the sale of "prosperity bonds" money to repay to the communities the commonwealth's half of that expended by them to aid the jobless.

To Name Drinkers

JOHN A. MANGET.

TRIAL AWAITING ACCUSED OFFICERS

we will ask the grand jury to indict them.

"Our committee made no idle gesture when it asked for the information. We mean business, and if Mr. Manget will co-operate he will do the people of Atlanta a distinct service."

Other Members Concur. Aldermen G. Everett Millican, Faris A. Mitchell and J. Charlie Murphy and Councilman William M. Rogers concurred in Richard's views. Beavers said he would prefer charges against every one of those Manget names and force him to trial before the committee.

Mayor Key said he would not reply to "anything Manget says because I do not consider it worthy of an answer."

"If Mr. Manget means that he will help the committee, he will be aiding the people of Atlanta," Millican said. "We have tried to enforce sobriety in the department and we believe our efforts have been rewarded to some degree. We will welcome the co-operation of Mr. Manget. I can say for myself that I will insist that every one named be tried and if convicted severely disciplined."

"Mr. Manget's attitude is one which the public and the committee should applaud," Mitchell said. "If he will furnish the names to the committee and back up the charges with real evidence, he will find us more than anxious to co-operate in enforcing proper discipline and conduct in the department. Not only has the committee insisted that policemen remain sober while on duty, but at every other time. We also have done and are doing everything in our power to enforce the law properly."

"I will vote to fire outright every member of the Atlanta police department convicted of drunkenness on or off duty," Murphy said. "In addition, I will ask the Fulton county grand jury to indict any member we believe guilty of protecting bootleggers. If Mr. Manget is sincere in his statements, he will call on him several months ago to back up a statement he made in Atlanta newspapers, but he countered with a statement that he was not a law enforcement officer."

"We want his co-operation. We meant what we said when we asked him to help us. If there are liquor-drinking and bootleg-protecting members of the Atlanta police department it is his duty to aid us. We will weed it out with an iron hand, and will punish those responsible. I will vote to reiterate that Mr. Manget will do a real service if he will co-operate."

Excoriates Church Leaders. Key taught a lesson as set out in the International Sunday school lesson booklet. He struck rigorously to the text for most of his address, but suddenly launched into an exhortation of the Methodist church and into a detailed discussion of the liquor war.

"I am one of those who do not believe that the present liquor laws should be repealed," Key told his class in reiterating a former stand in the matter. "I do believe that the present system has failed and that liquor drinking is more general now than at any other time in the nation's history."

"My plan is to permit sale of intoxicants in states that vote wet and prevent its sale in states that vote dry. Under my scheme, the governments of the nation would handle the liquor business. It would be taken from the hands of the gangster and gunman and vested in the governments. The billions of dollars now

GRAND JUROR HITS WET STATEMENT

H. A. Brockman, of 581 Linwood avenue, N. E., a member of the September-October term grand jury, Sunday issued a statement in which he pointed out that he was not present when the resolutions condemning the 18th amendment were read, but that if he had been at the meeting he would have voted with the minority.

"I do not see that the grand jury has a right to regulate the laws of the whole nation," Mr. Brockman said. "I have lived in Atlanta for 42 years, and during that time when there were saloons, and I believe that the present law is much better than anything we have ever tried."

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED IN BIG MAIL FRAUD

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Walter L. Marks, arrested last night when he arrived from Europe on the liner Statendam, was held by police today for extradition to Seattle on a $200,000 mail fraud charge.

Marks was indicted in 1928 on the mail fraud charge, detectives said. After he disappeared from Seattle, he was not traced until a year ago, when he was sentenced in London for swindling a member of parliament out of $55,000. When his term was up Scotland Yard deported him.

spent in futile efforts at enforcement and the other billions of profit going to law-breakers would go into the coffers of the governments and relieve the tax burden the people are carrying.

Would Mean Prosperity. "This plan means the difference between prosperity and an almost hopeless depression. Atlanta is the only city I know of where there is a real honest effort being made to enforce the laws. Half the mayors on that trip to Paris said no real effort was being made to enforce the laws in their cities."

"I committed the mistake of telling the truth. There is a sort of terrorism in the Methodist church and all about, for that matter, which prevents some big and influential men from saying the same things I have said about prohibition. They are afraid of the wrath which will be visited on them. But they can't terrify me."

"I want to ask this audience if there is anything in my plan which a sane, sensible man could not approve, and which would cause a man to be fired out of a Sunday school class. I think I am doing the work of God in this matter. I hope I am."

"Officers of the law are powerless to cope with the present liquor system. Its flow is almost unimpeded despite our heroic efforts to stem it. Prohibition is not of the Bible. It is a man-made law."

"It does not make for temperance. If it did, I would be the first one to fight for it. On one side of the picture we have prohibition with its rings and gangsters; its debauchery of the youth of the nation and government; its threat to undermine the very moral fiber of the nation and cause general disrespect for all laws. On the other we have temperance—a God-made law, with its economic soundness, its political stability; its respect for law and order; its social good and moral uplift."

"As God is my witness, I believe I am doing His work in this matter. I hope I am."

Key was interrupted repeatedly as he spoke by the applause of the audience. The lesson Sunday was on temperance, and most of the Sunday schools took occasion to laud the eighteenth amendment, which the Fulton county grand jury Friday recommended be repealed.

REV. MONCRIEF LAUNCHES NEW ASSAULT ON MAYOR

The Rev. Adiel Jarrett Moncrief Jr. Sunday predicted a sweeping victory for prohibition in a national referendum and declared that the wisdom and faith of the pioneers of the prohibition movement in America would soon be vindicated. The sermon was delivered at Oakland City Baptist church Sunday night as the second in a series of messages on moral progress.

Mr. Moncrief began the series last Sunday with an attack on Mayor James L. Key for his anti-prohibition propaganda in the mayor's office. He said last night, "Our mayor grows worse every day and I further predict the end of his political career unless he changes his ways. There is a growing sentiment against Mayor Key in Atlanta. Since my sermon last Sunday night, I have received a volume of correspondence and telephone messages from meddling citizens of Atlanta expressing their dissatisfaction with the mayor's conduct. One editorial writer of Atlanta has suggested that his honor should get prohibition off his mind and give his time on other things important to the city's welfare."

The pastor expressed his appreciation for the commendation of many citizens and church members for his outspoken opposition to Mayor Key's conduct. He also hit many who had tried to "intimidate him with the religion and politics cry." He said, "The Christian must not remain silent and ignore a condition that causes as much uneasiness and moral lassitude as these outbreaks of the mayor. Nor can the Christian remain a pious onlooker while the world gets drunk and goes to the devil. The religion of Jesus demands brave action and there are enough loyal followers of the Gospels to transform the world when aroused to action."

"The wets are not going to take over the control of Atlanta or the nation, because they have no plan to offer for a prohibition substitute," Mr. Moncrief asserted. "If they did have, then the matter would be different. But it is a case of prohibition or what have you and the answer is nothing. Prohibition with all its imperfections is better than anything else ever tried, and bear in mind that everything has been tried. Prohibition is not a noble experiment in its first stages. It is the last appeal of an exasperated nation for sobriety and moral progress."

The pastor also scored the presentments of the Fulton grand jury. "This is a further indication that we are in the midst of prohibition's testing time, and that every friend of temperance and law-enforcement should speak out with force. Atlanta has been called one of the most lawless and criminally infested cities in the nation, and if this is true it is no matter of wonder with conditions that prevail in the seats of government."

"The real facts about prohibition are hard to get. This is a most misrepresented subject, but when the facts are known they are encouraging. The press is almost unanimously wet and the cause of prohibition is not their cause, therefore the accounts in the papers are misleading. Go to federal officers and to government bureaus for facts and study the progress of prohibition through the past decade," the pastor urged.

THREE ARE ACCUSED IN RICHMOND MURDER

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Commonwealth's Attorney Dave E. Satterfield said tonight that a grand jury tomorrow will be asked to indict three Richmond youths arrested early yesterday following the killing of Patrolman Benjamin F. Williams. Williams was shot to death during a running gun battle that followed a chase given the three boys, who later were found to have been driving a stolen automobile, loaded with stolen goods.

While Louis Watts, 18, accused of shooting to death Patrolman Williams, lay in a critical condition in the City hospital, and his nephew, Hunter, and his cousin, Bennie Watts, were locked up in a precinct station, officials of the commonwealth tonight were completing the details preliminary for asking an indictment by a regular grand jury, to be convened tomorrow morning.

Mr. Satterfield said that Louis Watts is charged with murder and the other two boys with aiding and abetting in a murder.

U. S. TO RECEIVE PARK AREA TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A large area in the Great Smoky mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee will be turned over to the government tomorrow by those two states as a step in the creation of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Title to between 138,000 and 145,000 acres will be handed to Secretary Wilbur by David Chapman, chairman of the Tennessee commission, and Mark Squires, chairman of the North Carolina commission. The two states have acquired the land through the two commissions, marking the first time in the history of national parks development that a park has been created through gift rather than the setting aside of federal-owned land.

VIADUCT PROJECT
IN COUNCIL TODAY

Finance Committee Recommendation Likely To Reach Session of Body.

Initial steps to pave the way for start of reconstruction of the old Whitehall street viaduct immediately after the Christmas holiday season are expected to be taken this afternoon by city council as one of the major matters to face that body.

Another important matter to face the city legislators will be a sewer committee resolution urging Governor Richard B. Russell to call a special session of the Georgia assembly to pass legislation permitting property owners in metropolitan Atlanta to take necessary steps to relieve the health menace caused by the present inadequate sewer system.

Backed by the bridge committee of council, a resolution authorizing assistance of the proffer of John W. Grant, Atlanta capitalist, will be before the finance committee at a special session at 1:30 o'clock, half an hour before the regular council session.

The present bridge has been condemned by Clark E. Kauffman, chief of construction; C. E. Kauffman, city bridge engineer, and this action has the corroborative opinion of Secretary B. Black, engineer of bridges of the state highway department, and H. N. Hurt, Fulton county highway engineer.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam is author of the paper asking the governor to aid in the sewer emergency. He cited that in addition to presenting a real health menace, the present sewer system prevents the growth and development of Atlanta and its environs.

Council also will consider many other measures.

R. A. McCord Routs
Holdup Man at Macon

MACON, Ga., Nov. 1.—(P)—Robert A. McCord, Atlanta manager of Finner & Beane and a partner in that brokerage firm, was held up in an automobile here tonight, disarmed the bandit and put him to flight after he emptied the latter's pistol at the holdup.

Previously C. A. Chaffin, manager of the Macon Credit Bureau, had been held up by the same bandit, taken to point in the river bottom, and robbed of his automobile and then was tied to a tree and left to shiver in the damp, cold air.

TRUNKS OF RECLUSE TO BE OPENED TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(P)—Mrs. Ida E. Wood's 40 trunks, some locked since 1846, will be opened tomorrow. It is believed they contain costumes, and maybe jewels—dating back to revolutionary days.

Mrs. Wood, for whom a legal guardian recently was appointed, yielded up nearly $1,000,000 in cash from packets concealed about her person.

Another $1,000,000 in gems were found in bureau drawers. Collectors think the contents of the trunks will be worth yet another.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE No. 37

Through the tangled foliage, Pan-tee caught glimpses of three figures fleeing along the trail. Waiting breathlessly, she saw they were hilly men, used by the fierce Kor-ul-lul warriors, and as they came closer she saw to her dismay that the three were her father and two brothers. Now they raced for a steep cliff up which they climbed. With tense muscles, bated breath and praying to her gods, Pan-tee watched as the Kor-ul-lul also began to ascend.

The three hairy pithecanthropi climbed well, but to the girl their ascent seemed very slow. A parrot huddled his dark, the nearest fugitive but it fell short of its mark. With hands pressed tightly above her golden breast-plates, Pan-tee watched the race for life. Now her older brother reached the summit. Clinging there, he lowered his body and his long tail to the father beneath him. The latter, seizing this support, extended his own tail to the son below.

U.S. Weathers 'Gold Storm'
With Few Realizing Peril

Heavy Exports and Domestic Hoarding Checked in Brief Period, Sullivan Points Out.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The tapering off of the daily withdrawals of gold from the United States to Europe, diminished by $4,398,000 on Thursday, marks the subsidence of a period of trying strain for the official defenders and custodians of the American dollar and its gold standard, chiefly the federal reserve system and the government. The climax of the strain was about the third week in October, when an average of more than $35,000,000 a day was withdrawn. At that time there were under way two attacks on the dollar and on our whole credit system, one consisting of rapid hoarding by our own people and the other coming from Europe. Both now apparently are ended.

To understand the attack from Europe, it is necessary to recall that for some three years past, practically all Europe was thrusting upon the United States more gold than was well-served. The reason was that at that time practically every people in Europe was distrustful of its own currency or the stability of its own government or both. In that state of fear, large numbers in Europe who could get hold of money or gold sent it to the one place they regarded as the only safe depository, namely, New York. As late as September 5, our federal reserve officials were complaining of the "glut of gold" heaped upon us from abroad and were hoping for relief from its embarrassments.

Then, about the middle of September, the process suddenly reversed. To tell it in terms of one of the countries participating, Great Britain took its currency, the pound, off the gold standard on September 20. That is to say, the thing which had been feared actually happened. Once it had happened, the reason for keeping British gold and securities at New York ceased to exist. On the contrary, there was now a motive for taking back from America the gold which should now buy so much more in England.

There began a withdrawal from New York which might have caused us no concern had it not been related to panic proportions by alarmist and grotesque false stories circulated first in London and then throughout Europe. British bankers and business men, and especially London newspapers, eager to stimulate Britain to recovery after the devaluation of the pound, and in a campaign expressed, for example, in his shrill type in the London Daily Mail.

Drug Stores 'One-Cent' Sales
Prove Aid in Penny-a-Meal Drive

With many Atlanta drug stores conducting their periodical "one-cent sales," whereby the purchaser receives two articles by paying a cent additional on the cost of one, a campaign is being conducted to create circulation of the lowly one-cent copper coins. Mrs. T. K. Glenn, president of the Penny Club, points out one of the reasons for the success of these sales, as well as the coppers circulated among Atlanta smokers who pay taxes on cigarettes and cigars, are doing a lot toward helping our campaign to feed the jobless hungry during the winter months.

The penny-donation idea, conceived by Mrs. Glenn early in the fall as a means of charity in which almost every class is able to participate, continues to spread through various parts of the country, and is a very real place of business the recognizable Penny Club coin boxes are doing a good business. In addition, Atlantans are continuing to sign pledges to donate a cent for every meal they are fortunate enough to partake of, and in this manner the fund for providing food for unfortunate is growing steadily.

"I don't want this movement to wane," Mrs. Glenn said. "Let us keep donating a penny every time we sit down to a meal. It is little enough to ask, and all of us can find a copper or two in our pockets almost every day. It is the most economical act of charity that we can perform, and the good that it does would amaze the average person."

Contributions to the Penny Club may be sent to that organization, which has headquarters in the Trust Company of Georgia building. All funds received are placed in the general fund for hunger relief, overhead expenses of the club being borne by the group of Atlanta women in charge of its operation.

TARIFF CHIEF ISSUE,
HARRISON BELIEVES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(P)—After two tariff debates, Senator Har-risson, democrat, Mississippi, believes the question will be a main issue in next year's presidential campaign.

He made this prediction today upon his return from the debates with Senator Dickinson, republican, Iowa, in Sioux City, Iowa, and in Omaha.

"There is no question that the people of the west are extremely interested in the tariff," said Harrison. "They appreciate that the consideration and enactment of the Smoot-Hawley tariff law was one of the big factors in wrecking our economic structure and creating a confused situation throughout the world. There will be many other issues in next year's presidential campaign, but certainly the tariff will be one of the most important."

CORNERSTONE IS LAID
FOR $300,000 LIBRARY

The cornerstone of the new $300,000 library at Fairburn was laid Sunday afternoon in the presence of 1,500 persons. The library, donated by the general education board, of New York, will serve all Atlanta negro colleges.

Devotional services were held in the Sisters' chapel of Spelman College, after which those participating joined in a procession to the library site at Chestnut street and Greenway avenue, where the Masonic Union Grand Lodge was in charge of the ceremonies with J. W. Dobbs acting as the representative of the grand master.

Addresses were delivered by Kendall Weisiger, a trustee of the university and chairman of the library building committee, and by A. T. Walden, negro attorney. Others who participated in the ceremonies included Dr. John Hope, of Atlanta University; Miss Florence M. Read, president of Spelman; Dr. F. H. Clapp, president of Spelman Theological Seminary; Rev. E. C. Mitchell, dean of Morris Brown College, and Rev. E. R. Carter, pastor of the Friendship Baptist church.

Mr. Weisiger said that the building had been planned so that additional units may be added later if the growth of the college makes such a move necessary. The building probably will be completed early next year. The work is well under way. In a copper box sealed into the cornerstone were placed copies of the Atlanta negro colleges and other documents and papers.

Fire in Atappulugus
Razes Six Buildings

ATAPPULUGUS, Ga., Nov. 1.—(P)—Six buildings, including the city courthouse, were destroyed by fire that swept over half a block here early Sunday.

The flames were discovered at 2 a. m., and it was after daylight before the fire was under control. The Bainbridge fire department, 12 miles away, sent a truck to aid local firemen who saved the Swayne stores and the telephone exchange, although both places were damaged.

Other buildings destroyed were the Van Buren garage, a filling station, a store of Mrs. S. C. Long, the Austin Grocery Company and a vacant store building.

Chief H. B. Rich, of the Atappulugus fire department, late Sunday said no estimate had been made of the damage.

Millionaire Found
Slain in Automobile

MAUSTON, Wis., Nov. 1.—(P)—The body of Phillip C. Koring, a millionaire Milwaukee manufacturer, was found in his stalled automobile here yesterday. He had been shot through the head and apparently been slain with a blunt instrument.

Police, after a preliminary investigation, theorized he had been slain but were at a loss to advance a motive.

3 HELD AFTER DUEL
AT WIENER STAND

It was a hot night at the hot dog stand of Charlie Craig, negro, at Bell and Old Wheat streets, Sunday night in spite of the chilly weather. The heat was caused by the discharge of three shots at the local firemen who saved the Swayne stores and the telephone exchange, although both places were damaged.

Chief H. B. Rich, of the Atappulugus fire department, late Sunday said no estimate had been made of the damage.

He is survived by a son, Roger O. Mills; two daughters, Misses Eva and Ena Mills; two sisters, Mrs. H. E. Butler and Mrs. George Payne, and a brother, W. F. Mills, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at noon today at the graveside in Crest Lawn cemetery. The Rev. S. A. Cowan will officiate.

NEGRO BISHOP SPEAKS ON RACIAL INTEGRITY

Bishopocrates A. E. O'Neill and his wife, negro church leaders of Washington, D. C., delivered a lecture at the Lincoln lecture at the Lincoln theater, 404 Mitchell street, S. W., Bishop O'Neill's wife delivered a special talk to colored women.

Thus upon a living ladder of their own making the three reached the summit. The girl reached the Kor-ul-lul overtook them. But the latter did not abandon the chase and soon they too disappeared. The girl knew she must stay here, for dangers were all about her. Across the next ridge was the Kor-ul-gry, the lair of the terrifying monsters that brought the chill of fear to every inhabitant of Pal-ul-don.

Behind her was the pursuing war party who might at any moment return. In the valley below was the country of the Hodon, where death or slavery would await; everywhere were the wild beasts that eat the flesh of man. For a moment she debated and then turned southeast. Across the gorge of water toward the Kor-ul-gry she set out. At least there were no men there. Of all the hunters, man is the most relentless and the most terrible; so this primitive girl preferred the dangers of the gryf.

PEACE FOUNDATION
RAPPED BY ADAMS

Hoover's Tilt With Navy League Is Pushed Into Background by Attack.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(P)—Despite the general ban on controversial statements at the navy department, Secretary Adams today took a whack at the world peace foundation.

He charged that organization with issuing a statement "insidiously inimical to the United States." But he made no mention of the differences between President Hoover and the navy league which are to be decided by a presidentially-selected committee.

The president himself likewise remained silent. It was said at the White House today he still awaited delivery by the league of its membership list. From it he will select several committeemen to hear testimony he hopes will draw an apology from William H. Gardner, navy league president.

Apparently well satisfied with the advancement thus far of his challenge to Gardner's "abysmal ignorance" statement, the chief executive spent a quiet week-end in the executive mansion. Late yesterday he decided against the customary trip to his Rapidan fishing camp.

The president attended services at Friends Church this morning, the first opportunity to do so in many weeks. He emerged smiling. Secretary Adams, in his long aimed at the world peace foundation, referred to its announcement in September of what is believed was a "most surprising revelation" that the American navy had credits totaling $553,855,505 in the fiscal year 1930 against appropriations of only $242,850,711 available to the United States.

The secretary reported that the British navy spent that year $374,201,828 on its fleet, against an estimated expenditure by the British of $193,927,670. He added that even this comparison was made from the view of much higher costs of labor and material in this country.

"Conservatively speaking," he said, "nine per cent of the cost of a navy ship is returned to the country in labor wages, and on this basis, it costs two and two-tenths times as much to build a ship in the United States as it does in Great Britain, three and three-tenths times as much in Europe, and over five times as much as in Japan."

He then pointed to the much higher pay, better food and clothing furnished American sailors. But apart from the disparity in the cost of living power here and abroad, Adams presented tables prepared at the department showing that in proportion to income the United States spent far less on its navy than any other power. Only Germany, of the important countries, fell below the United States proportion.

Of each dollar of national income, he said, the United States spends for its navy .0043 cents; the United Kingdom .0148; Germany .0039; France .0167; Italy .0175; and Japan .0239. Air forces were not included in the figures for Great Britain, France and Italy.

Figured on a per capita basis he obtained the following result:

	Per Capita	Cost
United States	$700	$2.24
United Kingdom	420	6.21
Germany	200	8.50
France	203	3.89
Italy	105	1.84
Japan	87	2.09

British Flag Tramped
In Rioting at Nice

NICE, Nov. 1.—(UP)—Italian fascists and anti-fascists rioted today through the streets of Nice, became involved with a delegation of veterans from the British Legion, tramped on the British flag, and finally were repulsed by gendarmes who charged upon them with fixed bayonets.

Thirty arrests were made, and it is reported that the French government will make formal apology to Italy for the demonstration.

The riot occurred when prominent fascists arrived from Rome to participate in the unveiling of a monument to the memory of Italy's dead in the World War. The memorial is in the garden of the Italian consulate.

STATUS OF TRUCE PUZZLES LEAGUE

Arms Holiday Officially
"On," But None Knows
Whether It Is in Fact.

BY P. I. LIPSEY JR.
GENEVA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The date for the beginning of a one-year armistice building truce passed today with nobody at League of Nations headquarters able to say whether or not the holiday actually is in effect.

The United States, Russia, Japan and 11 other governments have said "yes," but each with provisos concerning the participation of other states and some, like Washington, with definite exceptions.

Four great powers—Italy, which proposed the truce; Great Britain and Germany, which heartily endorsed the scheme a month ago, and France—have not yet officially reported their attitude.

Most of the affirmative replies, including the American and Japanese, were received within the last two days and are being circulated to other governments. Until the numerous reservations and exceptions are approved by the other states, the legal status of the truce remains uncertain.

The league secretariat, meanwhile, has made no statement on the situation, and officials there said they were unable to define it. It probably will take a number of days to clarify the situation. It was suggested in some quarters that a conference of diplomatic representatives may be called for discussion of conditions each nation has announced for entering the agreement in an effort to harmonize them.

It has been assumed the holiday was to be realized through a gentlemen's agreement and not through a formal convention, but this circumstance only made the situation more vague. There is no precedent for procedure under the present state of affairs.

Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister who organized the plan, will leave for the United States in a few days. Some persons consider him the logical man to take the lead in clearing up the uncertainty—either before he leaves, or after he has talked with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

HOOVER SOON TO REVEAL DELEGATION PERSONNEL
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Confident over prospects for success of the approaching disarmament conference, President Hoover will announce shortly the membership of the American delegation.

The most important post to be filled, of course, is that of chairman. Belief is increasing that Secretary Stimson will not be overlooked, if the president is finding some difficulty in selecting other suitable and prominent men who are willing and able to serve the many months the conference may sit in Geneva.

There are indications that Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, and Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland—both of whom served as American delegates on the league's preparatory disarmament commission—will be chosen.

The late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, a delegate to the London conference and author of that treaty, had been selected as a delegate before his death. And President Hoover had asked the senator for his ideas on other members. Morrow drew up a list and was actively seeking men to work with him.

That list included Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, and John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president in 1924.

However, Baker intimated through friends he would prefer not to be asked to serve.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, another American who attended the London sessions, was on Mr. Morrow's list. He also has told friends he would rather not go abroad in February; his objections were senatorial duties and next year's elections.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas—democratic senate leader and that party's delegate at London—likewise was on Morrow's list and has about the same view toward another trip as Reed.

PETER FANCIES HIMSELF IN LOVE.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.
More often than you will believe it is yourself whom you deceive.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was in love. Yes, sir, he was in love. He was in love with himself, for one thing, for Peter is naturally selfish. And he was in love with little Mrs. Peter, but didn't know it. He had been in love with her long ago and that is how she came to be Mrs. Peter. But they had lived together so long in the dear old briar-patch that she came to be a part of his daily life that he didn't think much about her excepting to be annoyed when she scolded him and found fault with him because she wasn't satisfied to spend all his time in the dear old briar-patch. She no longer flattered him and told him how handsome and brave and wonderful he was, perhaps because she had long ago found out that he was also vain and selfish and thoughtless of others. That doesn't mean that she no longer loved him, for she did. She loved him for what he really was and not for what she imagined him to be, and that is the best kind of love. So she no longer flattered him.

Now Peter had found someone who did flatter him, and because he loved to be flattered he fancied himself in love with the flatterer. You know those who love to be flattered seldom know that they are being flattered. They accept all the nice things said about them as being rightly theirs, and the more they are flattered the more they want to be flattered. It was just so with Peter. He had made the acquaintance of a lady Rabbit named Molly over in the old pasture, and it seemed to him that she had the softest eyes he ever had looked into. That was because it was so long since he had really looked into the eyes of little Mrs. Peter.

Then, too, Molly said such nice things to him. She told him how handsome he was and led him to believe that she thought him the bravest and most wonderful person she had ever met. It tickled his vanity. He liked it. He wanted more of it. So it came about that Peter fancied himself in love. In love with Molly of the old pasture. Yes, sir, that is just what Peter did. Of course he knew what Peter did. Of course he knew

Reservation Time Limit Extended For Lecture by Dr. Julius Klein

Increasing interest in the appearance in Atlanta Tuesday night of Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of the department of commerce, has caused sponsors of the noted economist's visit to extend the time in which reservations to the public dinner at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel may be made, it was announced Sunday.

Dr. Klein is to deliver an address at a banquet to be given him at the Biltmore Tuesday evening and his subject, which will encompass the present business and commercial outlook, has attracted such a wide range of interest that Colonel Frederic J. Paxson, in charge of arrangements, has announced that reservations may be made up until tonight. Originally it was planned to present Dr. Klein exclusively to members of the Presidents' Club, which is sponsoring his appearance, but public interest was so enthusiastic that arrangements were made to convert the affair into a public dinner, at which those desiring to attend may be present. A cover charge of $2.50 may be paid to Colonel Paxson directly.

While in Atlanta Dr. Klein will be the guest of Clark Howell. He will arrive at 5:25 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and will be met by a group of civic leaders, among them being Mayor John S. Cohen, editor of The Atlanta Journal; James B. Nevin, editor of The Atlanta Georgian; W. L. Mitchell, manager of the Atlanta office of the department of commerce, and Colonel Paxson.

Dr. Klein has chosen as his subject, "The Business Outlook," and members of the Presidents' Club are confident he will render an up-to-the-minute analysis of industrial and commercial conditions of vital interest and information to business leaders.

The assistant secretary is known internationally for his ability to diagnose economic conditions and he is recognized as one of the leading thinkers of the day.

JURY IS DEADLOCKED IN CASE OF HATCHER

Judge Informed of 'Hopeless Division;' Deliberations To Be Resumed Today.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 1.—(P)—The jury in the case of Ross Hatcher Jr., tried here last week on a charge of criminal assault upon an 18-year-old girl, rested Sunday behind the iron doors of a jury room in the courthouse. No verdict had been reached Saturday night when the jury was put to bed.

The jury is occupying an especially built dormitory in the courthouse, equipped with beds and shower baths.

Monday morning the jury will resume its consideration of the case.

Saturday night the jury informed Judge Malcolm D. Jones that they were "hopelessly divided" but Judge Jones, in a brief recharge, sent the jury back to its room.

Charles Haden, Hatcher's companion in the alleged attack, has been found guilty and sentenced to the electric chair on December 11. However, a motion for a new trial automatically acts as a stay of execution.

THE EAST "

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint smudges, characteristic of old paper. A dark, possibly black, rectangular border is visible along the top and right edges of the page, suggesting it might be part of a bound volume. The overall tone is warm and slightly off-white.

The Marriage Racket

INSTALLMENT XII.

"But you didn't have to get up and wait on him," Irma said.

"Well, you didn't have to go to school this morning. Once the baby crying you went to sleep."

"But you will keep your voice down, won't you, Mildred?"

"Sure I will. I just didn't think of it."

The two stood for a moment looking at each other, then Mildred added, "I'm not used to having a baby in the house."

"He's your brother," Irma pointed out.

"I know it."

"Don't you like him?"

"Sure, he's a cute thing." She entered her room then and Irma followed and sat down on the bed. She had been standing too long. Her knees felt wobbly. Mildred dashed about changing her clothes. Martha Fulton was having a tea for Jane Malcolm. Irma watched Mildred rush from bureau to closet and back again. Her swift movements and healthy, happy face awoke in Irma a sudden flash of envy in Irma. She felt weak and exhausted and conscious that her fresh, young beauty had passed.

"Do boys come to your tea parties?"

"Sure. Why not?"

"Just wondered."

"Well, you will in a year or so, I suppose," Mildred returned carelessly.

"Hm, Aunt Tess sure did a good job on this dress. It looks better than the one I bought at Melville's."

"It's lovely."

"I wish I didn't have to put this old coat over it. O, well, who sees a coat? Bye, Irma."

"Bye, dear. Have a good time."

She was gone. Irma went to the window to watch Mildred walk down the street. The easy, graceful stride of the girl moved Irma to a sincere admiration. It was almost like watching somebody dance.

When Mildred had passed from view Irma went to the baby. She felt better after looking at him. The little head on the pillow made it possible to regard Mildred and her tea party in their proper proportions. A young kid with her own pleasures. They would pass, but this—the baby. She stooped and kissed him lightly and forgot Mildred.

She wanted to dress. It would be so much nicer for Wallace to find her dressed on their anniversary, but it might awaken the baby if she began opening the door to the nursery. There was no room in the little house for a nursery.

So Wallace found her still in her kimono when he came from the office. "Perhaps you'd feel better if you were dressed," he suggested.

Though it was their anniversary he brought no flowers or gift of any kind.

She did not mind. They had been through an expensive month. She knew now something of Wallace's income and expenses. His salary was five thousand a year. Irma figured it in weeks as that was the only way she could comprehend its possibilities. Aunt Tess had nine dollars a week that came regularly from some legal source that Irma couldn't understand at all. She did, however, understand that it clothed Aunt Tess and permitted her to buy a gift now and then for Mildred. Wallace supplied her food and room in return for her years of service to his daughter. The maid received twelve dollars a week. That was low wages, Irma discovered. Because it was low wages there was no complaint registered when Catherine left the dust beneath the radiators and forgot to wash pots and pans, remembering only to stick them out of sight. Mildred's social activities necessitated her dressing well. Aunt Tess's clever hands kept this bill surprising—low, but still it ran into many dollars. And now there was the baby with his attendant expenses added to a load which had almost toppled when burdened with Irma's modest needs. There were other things. Things which completely baffled Irma. Taxes and insurance and an end of monthly bills. She never understood the figures which Wallace showed her nor could she remember from month to month how much they paid on the car. She was surprised when he announced that it was completely theirs. She could have sworn that he had said that two months before. He had not misrepresented himself to her. She had expected no more than a home and a group of friends and Wallace. It did not irk her not to be able to have fine clothes and jewelry. She had never yearned for luxuries. Wallace was very kind and they had scores of friends in Thrace. The home was comfortable. She had the baby now. What more could a woman ask of life?

She sat across from Wallace at the dinner table on this their first anniversary and considered her blessings. "Dear, you must eat more," he urged. "Your appetite is awfully small."

"O, it will pick up, darling. Don't worry." She helped herself to a second chop though she desired nothing flavory. "I think the Harpers will be over," she remarked.

"That will be nice," he answered.

Her baby mind offered a question in the silence that settled again. Could all marriages be like this? In a million homes were wives eating their good, plentiful dinners and thinking that maybe the Harpers would drop in? If the Harpers didn't drop in then a million wives could go to the movies if they preferred that to sewing and reading. It gave you something of a walled-in feeling even to consider that that was marriage. But there was the baby to compensate for any flaws in the system. Besides, Irma told herself, she would feel different about life in general when she was strong enough to go out again.

Irma could not bring herself to attend the Atchison-Gardner wedding, though she and Bill Fitzroy were invited to trail along in city gill and be witnesses. Bill, she understood, gracefully accepted the honor and showed his gratitude by bestowing a pair of silver candlesticks upon the young couple. Irma's slim, young body was disappointingly slow in regaining its accustomed strength. She had not even felt equal to the task of selecting a gift for the Grahams. As a matter of fact she was not at all certain what gift was within her means. Having derived all knowledge of wedding gifts from movies and books, silver, linen or exquisite glassware was all she could imagine and none of these things were possible to the Graham purse.

Mildred was going to town to buy the gift as soon as Irma decided what it was to be. Mildred, because Wallace had no time for stores and one could not dispatch Aunt Tessie upon an errand. Irma devoutly wished that it were not Mildred for the inevitable Jane Malcolm was going to town with her and the two girls sat waiting with thinly veiled boredom while Irma made up her mind. Jane looked slightly amused. Irma thought. Her elder sister had been married recently and Jane would know exactly what the world and his wife was doing right now in the matter of wedding presents. It did not make Irma more comfortable to know that this was so. She was unable to name the possibilities that occurred to her, so conscious was she that the Malcolm brat would politely smother a gasp if Emily Post had not indorsed the suggestion.

"How about a nice table cloth?" Mildred asked.

"I don't want to buy anything that expensive," Irma answered.

"How much do you want to spend?"

"Ten dollars," Irma said definitely. It was useless to hedge. She and Wallace could have no secrets from Mildred's best friend.

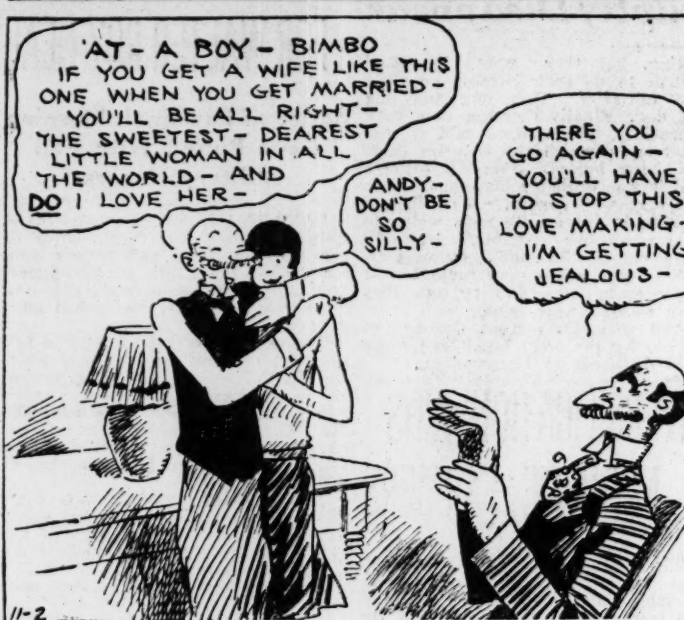

"Why not get a cute ash tray?" Mildred asked.

"Well, you can't get the corner of Main and Princess for ten dollars," Mildred objected.

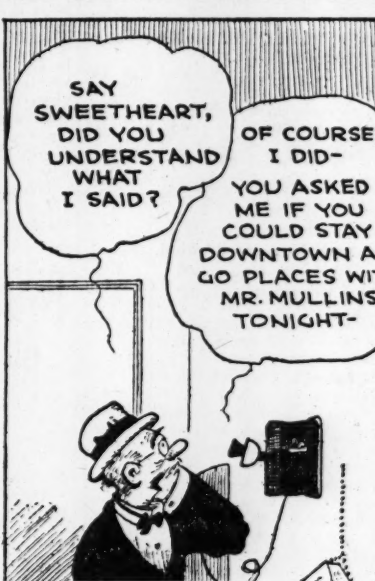

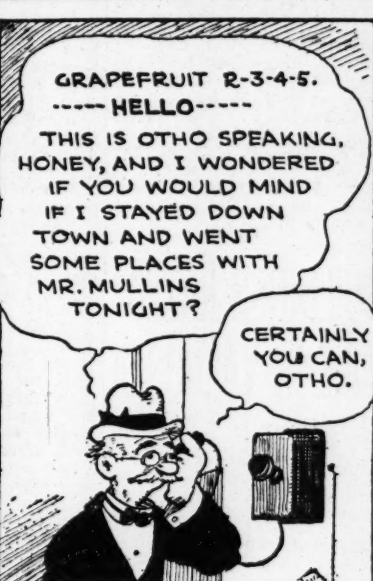

Irma was thinking that perhaps one could get a nice bath mat for ten dollars but she did not mention it. Perhaps a bath mat was not a correct sort of gift. She was fully aware that she was choosing the gift not from the standpoint of pleasing the Grahams but with a view of Jane's approval. She hated herself for caring about the sleek-haired child's opinion, but it was just another thing in life that couldn't be helped.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Have you ever thought about the importance of good will? Are you doing anything to create good will? If you are not, it is high time you began. It is one of the most important elements in any human relationship.

Personally—in the family and in the circle of friends, publicly—in the pulpit, in politics, in business, in social life, in every sort of human intercourse the rule holds. Your businessman knows it. Look at the financial statement of any large corporation and open your eyes wide at the millions of dollars at which the company values its good will. Or go out into the market to buy the good will of some firm that is going out of business. You will find it a large item. The object of any business is to make money, whether it be that of a mercantile firm, a public utilities firm or a theatrical one. They have all the same goal; that goal is gold. And to acquire it good will is essential. One may cultivate it, cater to it, and by strict attention to the public service, create it.

This is the same reason that the merchant will exchange your purchase that you don't want for one that you do want. This is the reason that the public service company will adjust your bill when it is proven for one reason or another to be excessive. This is the reason that the box office will exchange an undesirable seat for a desirable one, or refund your money, they are all out to please you, to merit your good will. The day they become careless, or indifferent to it, that day marks their doom as money making institutions.

The merchant is looking for the salesman who has the ability and the willingness to please his public. No matter how cleverly that salesman may contrive at times to get your cash, if he incurs your ill-will he is not an acceptable employee. Big business is on the lookout for executives who know how to meet and please, not only the heads of another big business, but the customers who come to trade. In the final analysis, good will is one of the corner stones of trade.

"No man liveth to himself." And the nations of the world are discovering it, alas! too late. The national failure to recognize the truth of this is nothing more than the individual failure to recognize it. "Writ large." The clergyman knows that good will on the part of his people toward him is an essential for his success. If he fails to secure this it is only a matter of time until he must move on to another parish, and before he goes he will know it when the next election comes for votes are largely an expression of good will. But one may object that in an election the voters are supposed to be registering merely confidence, respect and faith in the integrity of the individual. Probably true, but if there be ill will against the candidate it automatically nullifies and renders those feelings of no account. We do not vote for the man or the woman against whom we feel ill will.

Popularity is based on good will. Social success is built on good will. Professional and commercial success is built on good will. Efficiency, skill, eloquence, artistic ability may play their part but good will sets the stage for them.

A man's value to the community is measured by the good will his fellow men bear to him. He not only fails of happiness if his neighbors wish him ill, but he cannot be serviceable. Then the problem of the individual is the same as that of the business firm and the efforts he makes to create good will in favor of himself redound to his credit and his success is exacted in the same way as do any efforts on the part of corporations. We wish to know what these efforts consist in and we wish to know how to bring them to a successful issue. Let us note:

First of all is the unselfish attitude which considers the other person's point of view, the other person's welfare, the other person's pleasure and not our own exclusively.

Second, a warm friendliness that is articulated with sympathy and appreciation and that manifests itself in a willingness to lend a helping hand even though we can expect nothing in return.

Third, a desire to mingle with our fellows, to make ourselves acquainted with them in the hope of coming to know them better and more intimately. Incidentally, this is the heart of the modern day advertising which has reached such mammoth proportions. Advertising is an effort to acquaint a large and larger audience with the merits of the product advertised and thereby to popularize that product.

I asked a merchant why a certain tobacco company had such a large item of good will on its balance sheet. The reply was, "They are widely known and they are enormously popular with their acquaintance."

Stores go out of business because they have dissipated their good will. Doctors lose their patients because they have forfeited their good will. Clergymen are forced out of their pulpits because they have failed to retain the good will of their parishioners. And so on throughout the long list of callings and occupations that engage the attention of humanity.

Are you a creator of good will for yourself, for your firm, for your profession, for your family, for your church, for your state, for your nation? If you are not, then change your attitude toward your fellows, for everyone with whom you are connected by ties of blood or business, and every organization to which you belong, whether social, political, or ecclesiastical, are penalized for your failure and suffer the effects of the ill will your neighbors and friends have toward you.

ELLIS, SMITH TRIAL RESUMED TODAY

Trial of Ed O. Ellis and W. Clyde Smith, charged with using the mails to defraud, will be resumed in federal district court at 10:30 o'clock this morning. It is expected that the case will be given to the jury before noon.

Assistant District Attorney Hal Lindsay, who has been conducting the prosecution, rested the government's case Friday, and it is expected that the defense will close its case without placing either Ellis or Smith on the witness stand. However, it was learned that several witnesses were summoned Saturday from Birmingham to attack the testimony of John J. Durfield, also named in the indictment with Ellis and Smith, but made a written confession and is the government's chief witness. He is not on trial.

The defendants are charged with using the mails in a wire-tapping scheme which cost Roy E. Martin, Columbus theater magnate, $90,000.

Rose, Chandler Only Injuries as Bulldogs Open Work for Violets: Georgia, Tulane, Tennessee Sweep on Toward Conference Title

ROSE, CHANDLER MAY NOT FACE MEEHAN'S TEAM

Downes Expected To See Service; Mehre Foresees Bruising Game.

By Jimmy Jones.

Clegg, the roly-poly colored boy who has been with the Georgia football team for 20 years, lost his Sunday cigars on the trip back from Gainesville, where the Bulldogs defeated the Florida football team Saturday.

It came about in this fashion. Judge Frank Foley, of Columbus, and Charles Bloch, of Macon, both graduates of Georgia and both now famous in the legal profession, accompanied the Bulldogs to see them wreak vengeance on the 'Gators.

In their joy at being back with the team again, the two barristers, knowing Clegg's appetite for cigars, showed him with them. Other alumni did the same. By Saturday night Clegg's pockets were bulging with cigars. He was saving them for Sunday.

The game was won, and in the rush to make the train the two Georgia alumni forgot to stock up on stogies for the long ride back and the long hours of talking. To their dismay they found themselves tobaccoless. There were no smokers to be had on the train and, like all good lawyers, they wanted cigars.

The presence of Clegg was demanded. Clegg was shaken down and yielded up a deluge of cigars accumulated through two days of association with open-handed alumni. There were all sorts of cigars, and the supply was ample to last through the night.

If Clegg is smart, he will get a box of cigars out of them yet.

HARRY MEHRE'S MOAN.

Well, I guess that's Africa for you. If you aren't getting someone, someone's getting you.

There was Harry Mehre, happy and content with his team's victory over Florida. And then came word that Oregon had defeated N. Y. U., the Bulldogs' next opponent.

"Well," said Mr. Mehre, sadly, as he spoke over the telephone Sunday, "Vanderbilt had just been licked by Tulane when they came down and almost wiped us out. We were lucky to win."

"And now comes Oregon and slips up on N. Y. U. I am confident that Meehan's team had underrated them. But whatever the facts were, they are sure to be in a poisonous bad humor when we meet them Saturday at the Yankee stadium. They will have even more incentive to win than they ordinarily would have had."

And the Georgia coach has a moan coming. His two toughest games are just ahead and Chandler, his ace kicker, and Rose, one of the regular tackles, appear out.

GEORGIA'S GREAT SQUAD.

Georgia's football squad is one of the finest the south has seen. When a coach can lose men like Chandler and Downes for a game and put in substitutes who will pass and kick and run as well as the regulars, it means he has what every coach dreams of—a balanced, reserve-supplied team.

Vanderbilt lost two regular backs and had to build an entirely new offense. Other teams suffer the same fate.

Georgia's coaches have done great work with their fine material. Having men like Sullivan, Mott, Gaston and White to use when the regulars aren't so well must be very comforting, indeed.

THEY ALL LIKE THE CATFISH.

Several letters arrived indorsing a statement appearing here that, of all the ends playing in the south, Catfish Smith is the one most likely to come through in the pinches.

Many coaches are inclined to underestimate this end because he takes things easily when there is no special need to hurry. Vanderbilt coaches thought that Smith's play was not so good in their game with Georgia.

It may not have looked so good at times, but the facts are that it was Catfish Smith who caught the pass for the only touchdown of the game. The same thing applies in most any game.

When the pinch comes, it will be the Catfish who will catch a pass, grab a fumble, or do something to win the game. He has a genius for it.

A GREAT CROWD FOR GEORGIA.

Despite the fact that Oregon took the New York University team over the hurdles Saturday at New York, a great crowd is sure to be present when Georgia and the Violets clash Saturday in the Yankee stadium.

Homer George, a Georgia grad now with the Bell Syndicate in New York, reports that there is tremendous interest in the game. He predicts that it will outdraw any game in the east with the possible exception of the Army-Notre Dame game which seems to be a game that people just go to see anyhow. The estimate is substantiated by reports from Georgia alumni in New York who are unable to get tickets there, and are writing to Georgia for them.

Homer George sounds a note of warning about the Violets—especially McNamara's kicking.

It should be a great contest.

33 WINS, FOUR TIES IN 41 PICKS.

Those football guesses for the week-end weren't bad. Not at all bad.

Out of 41 picks there were 33 wins, four ties and four losses for a really grand average. It was one of the best records of the season's guessing contests.

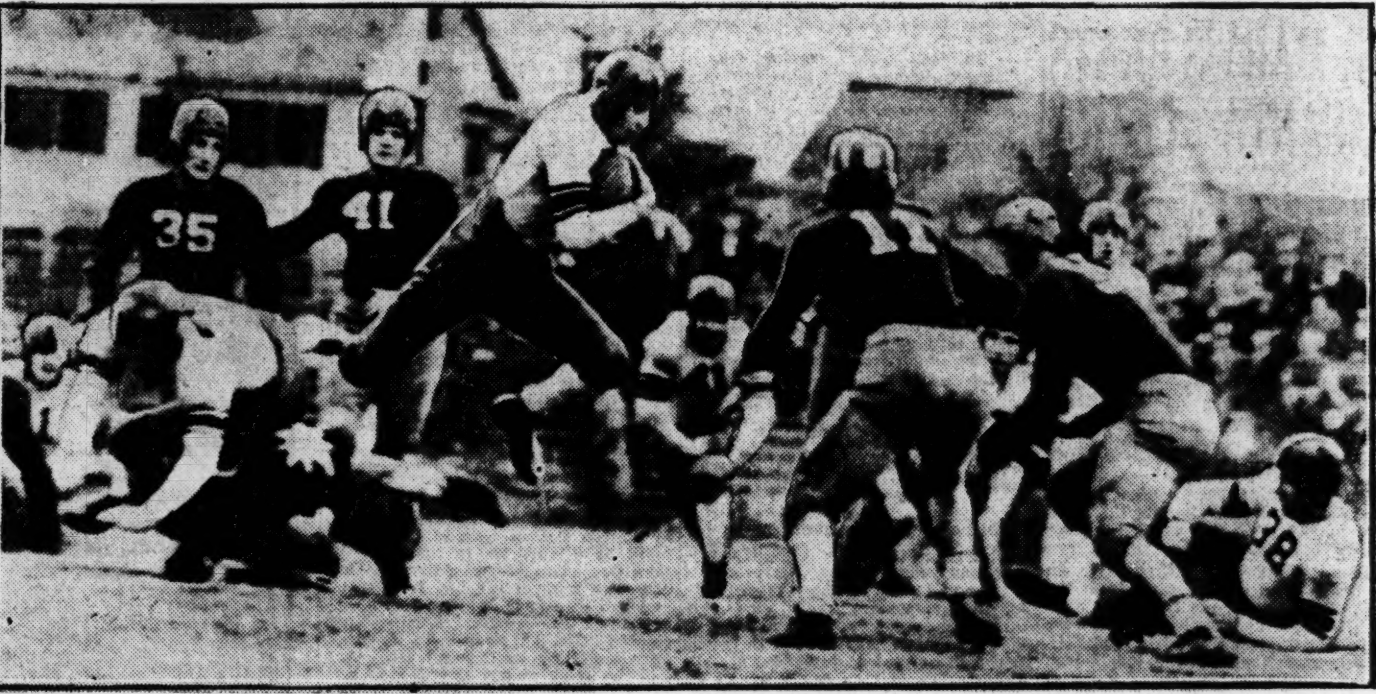

Four out of five games rated as toss-ups were called correctly. Cornell's victory over Columbia, Oglethorpe's win over Clemson, Pennsylvania's defeat of Lafayette and Holy Cross' victory over Brown were all called correctly. The only miss on the toss-ups was the Mercer-Centre game which Centre won, 3 to 0.

The three losses in the straight selections were Sewanee's victory over L. S. U. (you missed that one, too), Minnesota's defeat of Wisconsin, and Oregon's surprising upset of New York University.

THE FIRST GEORGIA-FLORIDA PICTURES.

The Constitution carried four action pictures of the Georgia-Florida football game, played at Gainesville, Fla., in the city edition Sunday morning, and in the three early editions of Monday. The pictures were brought back from Gainesville by Kenneth Rogers and O. H. Jones of The Constitution staff. It is 360 miles to Gainesville, and the boys were in the office by 9:30—which is driving.

Shipwreck Tries To Wreck 'Em!

"Shipwreck" Kelly, Kentucky's famous backfield star, is shown above hurdling the Alabama line that was piled up in front of him. The unusual bit of action was snapped at Tuscaloosa, where the two teams met Saturday. Shipwreck probably didn't get very far because two husky members of the Tide are waiting for him. Alabama won the ball game, 9 to 7. Shipwreck will wage a ball-carrying duel with Brewer, flashy Duke back, this Saturday. Associated Press photo.

WEST END WINS GOLFING CROWN

Cochran and Cook Sweep Match To Bring Second Victory.

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 1.—West End won its second championship of the North Georgia Golf league with a 4-to-2 victory over Rome here this afternoon. It was a play-off of the regular season, which ended with West End and Rome in a tie for leadership. West End won the title last year.

In Sunday's victory, Goat Cochran and Gene Cook, of West End, were clean sweep of the three points with Gordon and Clements, of Rome, that decided the play-off. Both played unusually good golf.

Pete and Tommy Barnes, of West End, finished all square with Golly McWilliams and Billy Warner, of Rome.

Johnny Adamson and J. B. McCord, of West End, were one point from Cochran and King, of Rome, and the Rome pair of Covington and Cone won two points from O'Neil and Caudill, of West End.

A. W. G. A. Stages Jubilee Tourney.

As a reward for their co-operation in increasing the membership to 121, members of the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association will be guests in a three-day jubilee tournament this week over the East Lake, Capital City and Druid Hills courses.

Mrs. O. B. Keeler, president of the association, will be hostess. Soon after her return last spring from California, Mrs. Keeler promised members of the association a tournament if the membership was increased to 100. That mark was passed early in September, with several to spare.

The first round of the event, which will be played today over the East Lake course, with the second 18 holes scheduled for Tuesday at Capital City, and the third on Wednesday at Druid Hills.

Players will be divided into three classes, according to their handicaps, and prizes for the low net in each class will be awarded. Members may play one, two or three days, but only those who participate in the three-day play will be eligible for prizes.

Wagar Champion At Anasley Park.

H. H. Wagar was crowned champion of Anasley Park's golfers Sunday afternoon when he defeated H. C. Nowell, 4-3, in a 36-hole match in the finals of the annual club championship tournament.

Wagar had a spectacular round of 74 in the morning, and finished 4 up. His game during the afternoon round was not so good, but he managed to maintain his lead until he closed to beat the match on the 33rd green.

In the consolation finals, J. J. Jones Jr. defeated Charlie Strick, 2-1, in an 18-hole match Sunday afternoon.

Dinner Tourney Starts Today.

As a climax to the summer and fall golf schedule at the Anasley Park club, players will begin play this afternoon in the annual dinner tournament. The matches will continue through December 5, when a "losers pay" dinner and annual business meeting of the club will be held.

The tournament is being sponsored by Tommy Wilson, club professional. T. C. Dana vs. Dale Addington; F. H. Wagar vs. Dan Sage Jr.; H. H. Wagar vs. Dan Sage Jr.; W. H. Wagar vs. Dan Sage Jr.; W. H. Wagar vs. Dan Sage Jr.

"I noticed that our boys let down a bit in the last half," said Coach Mehre, "they were not on their toes, and were a little slow taking advantage of one good scoring chance." Although he did not bring back points with the speed of Downes, Sullivan ran the team admirably in the absence of the resourceful little Bulldog leader. His blocking, defensive work and kicking were above reproach.

Florida was undoubtedly crippled Saturday, but the 'Gators were convincingly beaten. Charlie Beckman actually had some good backs out, but had been in the Florida game, yet Georgia's running attack showed no letdown with the lone exception of the battle with Vandy. And in that game Robert and Downes were there in the pinch.

THREE "REVELATIONS."

Jody White, who is a real comer, Buster Mott and Sullivan were revelations against Florida. Mott seems to have reached his old form, and White has fully found himself.

Georgia Players Camp By Old Osceola Site

At Ocala, Bulldogs Worked in Region Rich in Legends of Seminole Indians

By Jimmy Jones.

"Nope, there aren't any more of 'em around here now, sonny; they're all down yonder in the Everglades and they dassent make a move but sometimes of a night we can lie here in bed and hear 'em yellin' like so many panthers in the forests over there..."

It was on a balmy afternoon when we were talking with an early settler of Ocala, Fla., but we couldn't help shivering. We felt better on being assured that the Everglades were a long way down the road. In fact, the Everglades never were more attractive from such a distance.

The boys probably didn't realize it, for they get enough of that sort of thing back at school, but the University of Georgia's 35 football players pitched camp for their first practice on Florida soil last Friday hard by the old rendezvous where Osceola's Seminoles once gathered to put on their war rouse.

While Harry Mehre's young men were tramping the rich green grass that once knew a moose and a mooseless tread, your correspondent was being acquainted with some of the Indian lore about the place.

Realizing that a football writer was perfectly capable of confusing a Kickapoo with some team's star punter, Mrs. S. T. Sistrunk, wife of one of Ocala's leading attorneys, and Horace Brown, of the chamber of commerce, were kind enough to help us assemble these bits of history.

Two miles from the identical spot where Georgia worked, lay the site of old Fort King, where Osceola made his last stand for Seminole independence, and two miles away on Bradley's pond was Osceola's old home. It was at Fort King that Osceola was imprisoned by the United States government and where the vengeful redskin directed the slaying of the fort's commander after his release.

There is a plot on the estate of E. B. Weathers, still cherished and hallowed, which marks the grave of Charlie Amathla, the most intelligent of the Seminole chiefs, who was slain by Osceola because he advised the Indians to move west. Osceola's tradition has it, took Amathla's gold and scattered it through the forest. Inspired by the story many treasure hunters have been made there but no treasure has been found.

By Amathla's side lies the body of his gentle wife, Tusawilla, for whom one of Ocala's streets is named.

All around are the graves of other powerful chieftains. Micanopy is buried in the town that bears his name.

Fort King, the main spot of interest, originally lay on a grassy knoll, bordered by a lake over which Osceola's braves passed at night to escape the glare of the searchlights.

Under the tall oak trees that still stand, government agents met painted chiefs in important council.

Osceola, who once made Ocala his stronghold, finally was driven out by General Bullock, whose family still lives at Ocala, and Joseph McGowan, who fought Georgia Creek.

The wily warrior eventually won his cause as his people still encamp on Florida soil. Osceola stands alone as the only redskin in history ever to defy Uncle Sam and get away with it.

Osceola even committed atrocious acts among his own people and got away with it, such as the slaying of Amathla, which he plotted because Amathla took money from the whites in exchange for cattle and upheld the government's plan to deport the Seminoles to Oklahoma.

The memoirs of Hernando DeSoto, intrepid Spanish explorer, mention Ocala, Fla. DeSoto, lured by the wealth of the Timucua Indians, a peaceful tribe that held sway there in the 16th century, was slain by a white lover to a watery grave in beautiful Silver Springs, rather than part.

And a colored boy, leisurely steering newspapermen over the spot in a glass-bottomed boat, long since has forgotten their names. He refers to them simply as "two young folks from around Ocala here."

After the Seminoles moved in, exterminated the Timucua and exterminated their cash. There was never anything backward about a Seminole except his ethics.

BIG TEN TITLE IS AT STAKE

Northwestern Meets Minnesota in Important Game Saturday.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Northwestern, whirling toward the Big Ten gridiron championship, battles Minnesota at Evanston next Saturday, a game which probably will be the deciding contest of the 1931 title campaign.

The conflict will either wreck or virtually cinch Northwestern's hopes for the Wildcats. They already have beaten Ohio State, 10 to 0, and yesterday, 14 to 0.

If Northwestern defeats Minnesota, only Indiana and Iowa will remain in the path to five straight victories for the Wildcats. They already have beaten Ohio State, 10 to 0, and yesterday, 14 to 0.

If Minnesota triumphs that will make it three straight victories for the Gophers, who conquered Iowa, 34 to 0, and smashed Wisconsin's hopes yesterday, 14 to 0.

Michigan alone remains on Minnesota's schedule after the engagement with Northwestern.

OTHER GAMES.

In addition to the Minnesota-Northwestern battle there are two more Big Ten engagements next Saturday, with Wisconsin playing Illinois at Champaign and Indiana going to Ann Arbor to tackle Michigan. The Badgers figure to triumph, perhaps by a tight score, while the Wolverines appear to have the Indians engaged.

The four remaining conference teams will go for outside competition. Ohio State meets Navy at Columbus, hoping to duplicate its 27-to-0 victory over the Wolverines.

Michigan plays Iowa at Lincoln and figures to even up for last year's defeat. Chicago and Purdue tackle southern teams with Arkansas coming to Stagg field to meet Old Man Stagg's down-trodden Maroons, and Centenary, the good little Louisiana outfit, engaging Purdue at Lafayette.

Northwestern rolled past the second milestone in its title march yesterday, encountering only feeble resistance from Illinois. The Wildcats hurriedly piled up 25 points in the first period and then the stars appeared from the game to rest up for Minnesota.

GOPHERS POWERFUL.

Wisconsin's man power, which wrecked Purdue's title hopes, failed to do the same to Minnesota, with the Gophers scoring 14 points in the first two periods.

Carl Cramer, Ohio's sensational sophomore quarterback, brought gloom to Indiana by scoring two touchdowns that enabled the Buckeyes to beat the Hoosiers, 13 to 6.

Iowa broke a string of four scoreless games by defeating George Washington University, of Washington, D. C., 7 to 0.

Purdue found that Old Man Stagg's Maroons, crippled and lacking reserve strength, have plenty of nerve. The Maroons held a 6-to-0 lead at the half, but went down before superior replacement material to lose, 14 to 6.

The standing, involving only out-of-conference games, is as follows:

TEAM	W	L	T	Pts.	Opp.
Minnesota	2	0	0	48	1,000
Northwestern	2	0	0	42	1,000
Michigan	2	0	0	37	667
Purdue	2	1	0	35	667
Ohio State	1	1	0	33	500
Wisconsin	1	1	0	21	500
Indiana	1	1	0	19	500
Iowa	0	1	1	0	34
Chicago	0	3	0	15	500
Illinois	0	3	0	7	500

Bachman Picks Wave Over Bulldogs Nov. 14

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 1.—Charlie Bachman, the outspoken coach of the Florida Alligators, is willing to concede that the University of Georgia has one of the hardest schedules in the country, and believes that if the Bulldogs go through undefeated they are entitled to a rating as national champions.

"Any team that plays Yale, Vandy, N. Y. U., Tulane and California all in one season is biting off plenty, and Harry Mehre deserves lots of credit if he gets through," Bachman stated.

However, the Florida coach is inclined to favor Tulane over the Bulldogs November 14.

Tulane has one of the greatest teams in her history, and, although we all know Georgia is good, she will be a little jaded after that N. Y. U. game, and Tulane will be fairly fresh. I pick Tulane, but I am wishing Mehre all the luck possible. He is a fine sportsman."

POWERFUL TRIO IN IMPRESSIVE WINS SATURDAY

Bulldogs Play N. Y. U., Greenies Face Auburn, Tech Meets Tarheels.

While nature's paint brush was applying the finishing touch to the gold and brown canopy of autumn forests, the three unbeaten and untied football teams of the Southern Conference won two in their conference campaigns with a flourish Saturday.

Georgia, Tulane and Tennessee, the trio of pace setters, had a fitting farewell to the month of harvest by reaping a bounteous yield of touchdowns. Each won convincing victories Saturday by four touchdowns or more.

Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee Vols added Wallace Wade's Duke Blue Devils to their list of conquests by winning at Knoxville, 25 to 2.

LONG FAST BROKEN.

Georgia's Bulldogs, minus Downes and Chandler, swept to a convincing triumph over the Florida Alligators at Gainesville, 33 to 6. The win was doubly pleasing to the Bulldogs in view of the fact that it was their first over Florida, their Jonah team, since 1927.

Tulane made it a solid day of achievement for the unbeaten triumvirate by administering a steam-rollering to the Mississippi Aggies at New Orleans, 59-7.

Not that it matters a whole lot in the final reckoning, but attention is called to the fact that the safety scored by Duke and the solitary touchdown put over by the lowly Aggies were the first points of the year to be tallied against Tennessee and Tulane.

Previously they had held the distinction of being two of the five major teams in the country which had kept their goal lines inviolate, and the only two in the conference which had not been scored upon.

VOLS SET PACE.

Tennessee, with five conference victories, is just a jump ahead of Harry Mehre's Bulldogs, which has four, and Bierman's Tulane team with a like number.

The Georgia-Tulane game at Athens, November 14, will eliminate one of the contenders, unless there is a tie, and Tennessee has one serious foe to hurdle in the annual game with Vandy on the same date.

The highland in the way of upsets Saturday was Sewanee's fine comeback to defeat Louisiana State in a night game, 12 to 6. Saturday before last, Sewanee had gone down before Alabama, 23 to 0.

Frank Thomas' Crimson Tide also showed signs of living up to early expectations by noting out Harry Gamble's Bulldogs, 14 to 0, at Tuscaloosa. A safety decided the issue, but Alabama outplayed the Blue Grass boys all the way.

CAVALIERS BOW.

Virginia ventured out of the conference and bowed to a Harvard team, 19-0, and Ole Miss fell before Marquette, 13-6, in another interconference affair.

Vanderbilt's Commodores, fast recovering from the stunning blow handed them by Tulane, showed a lot of power in overcoming Georgia Tech, 49-7.

Maryland, which is trailing the three conference leaders, held her place by bumping V. P. L., 20 to 0.

Clemson's ill-fated Tigers also went outside of the conference to be licked by Harry Robertson's Oglethorpe Petrels, 12-0, and V. M. I. did likewise and lost to Davidson, 7-0.

North Carolina won a wild game from N. C. State, 18 to 15.

In other games, Auburn beat Spring Hill, 27-7, and the Washington and Lee Generals of Jimmy DeHart played Vassar, 14 to 0, to a scoreless tie.

Georgia's second invasion of the east to meet New York University is the standard of next Saturday's games, while L. S. U. meets the Army at West Point.

Tennessee counts against Carson-Newman at Knoxville, Tulane goes to Montgomery to play Auburn and Tech takes on Chuck Collins' North Carolina Tarheels at Grant field.

Examiners' Course Under Way Tonight

The Life Saving Examiners' training course sponsored by the Atlantic Chapter of the American Red Cross will get under way tonight at 7 o'clock in the Atlanta Athletic Club pool.

A large number have registered for the course, which consists of a 10-hour training period in life saving methods and instruction in expert swimming. The course is free and all persons who are connected with organizations sponsoring water safety will be admitted to the classes provided they have passed the senior life saving test.

Ramona S. Eaton, life saving field representative, will arrive today from the national headquarters at Washington, D. C., to instruct the classes. Eaton is well known throughout the south as an expert in his line and the Atlanta chapter feels fortunate in securing so able an instructor.

All persons taking the course and successfully passing the test will be appointed life saving examiners.

Horton To Forego British Invasion

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP) For the first time since his rise to golfing fame in 1928, Horton Smith will miss the British open golf tournament in 1932, he announced at his home here today.

Smith said he will become identified with an eastern country club as professional, and his duties will not permit him to make the foreign invasion. He refused to announce his connections for the coming year, saying contracts had not been signed yet. Smith said he will charter a plane to make the trip to the south and west during the year.

International Football Title Race Narrows to Dozen Teams

MUSTANGS FACE TEXAS AGGIES

Texas Christian, Tied for Lead, To Meet Rice Saturday.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, Southwest conference football title race leaders, face another week of hard practice and rigid opposition.

Southern Methodist, with six consecutive victories this season, three of them conference triumphs, goes to College Station to battle the Texas A. & M. Aggies.

Texas Christian, with six victories out of seven starts, and an unblemished conference record of two wins, remains at Fort Worth for an invasion by Rice Institute.

The third conference combat will be at Austin, where the University of Texas, 1930 conference champions, will meet Baylor.

The University of Arkansas, defeated in three conference games, will travel to Chicago this week to take on the University of Chicago in an intercollegiate game.

The Southern Methodist aggregation is due for a fight from Texas A. & M., which defeated Centenary Saturday, 7 to 0, while Southern Methodist was

Governor Brings Luck to Georgia

Luck to Georgia

Governor Dick Russell, who is a keen and ardent student of football, has brought good luck to Georgia's football team this fall.

The governor has seen the Bulldogs in every game but one this year, and he thought they looked more powerful against Florida Saturday than on any occasion when he has watched them.

He was particularly impressed by the returning of Little Homer Key and the defensive work of Dickens.

Georgia coaches, Mehr, Enright and Twomey, also thought the team looked good, even without Downes and Chandler, and they think their men will be in better shape for N. Y. U. than they were for either Carolina or Vandy.

Georgia's chance of winning depends on the team retaining its form, and on N. Y. U.'s reaction to the Oregon loss. The Violets showed much strength prior to the game. Saturday's battle will be close, experts believe, as the teams are about evenly matched.

eliminating Texas from the conference race with a 9-0 victory.

Texas Christian scored a 7-0 victory over Arkansas at Fayetteville.

MILDCATS, IRISH RETAIN RATING AMONG LEADERS

Georgia, Tennessee, Tulane Sweep on Apac in Southern Chase.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The national football picture could be drawn on a much smaller canvas today, as the Bulldogs, the Irish and the Cats retained their positions in the fight for the mythical national championship.

In the Midwest, Notre Dame and Northwestern; in the south, Georgia, Tennessee and Tulane; in the east, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Harvard and Syracuse; in the southwest, Southern Methodist; on the Pacific coast, St. Mary's, Southern California and Stanford; the Rocky mountain section, Utah and the Utah Aggies—these were the teams that held vantage points as the season entered the crucial November stage.

Yesterday's games saw most of these leaders turn in decisive victories that carried them a little further along on the trail that leads to national honors.

In the Midwest, Notre Dame, which previously had demonstrated at Pittsburgh's expense that it must be reckoned as a most formidable contender, conquered a fight-fighting Carnegie Tech outfit, 19-0. Oregon upset the previously unbeaten New York University outfit, 14-6. Harvard defeated Virginia, 19-0. Army overpowered Colorado College, 27-0. Michigan smashed through Princeton, 21-0. Syracuse nosed out Mississippi State, 15-10, and the Kansas Aggies defeated West Virginia, 19-0.

Will Rogers Loses Close Polo Match To Eric Pedley

Will Rogers, Loses Close Polo Match To Eric Pedley

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—(UP)—Will Rogers, garbed in overalls and a cowboy shirt, was the star of a pick-up polo team that met Eric Pedley's "Reds" today, but, although he scored two goals, he could not avoid defeat.

The American comedian's ensemble was brilliantly set off by a spottless white helmet lent him by Colonel Pedro Amaro, and he received repeated ovations for his work in the first chukker.

In the fourth chukker, however, when his pony failed to understand Rogers' Spanish, the cowboy storyteller furiously drove the ball towards his own goal, while hundreds of Mexicans, society people nearly swallowed the gun they chewed in his honor.

Rogers announced after the game that Colonel Amaro had accepted an invitation to send a team to Los Angeles for dedication of the Riviera polo field on December 5.

Pedley will leave for Los Angeles early tomorrow, but Rogers intends to remain in Mexico City several days, after which he will visit Texas and Oklahoma.

Cards Win First, Beating Dodgers, 14-7

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 1.—(UP)—Chicago's Cardinals won their first game of the season today, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 14-7, in a national pro football league contest.

Thomas scored for the Dodgers, and Kasel for the Cardinals in the first half, and in the third period Nevers gave Chicago the winning touchdown.

The final touchdown was made on straight football from midfield.

G. M. A., SMITHIES AWAY THIS WEEK

Unless Officials Arrange Games, Atlanta Prep Card Is Bare.

Unless the efforts of several Atlanta school officials result in the transferring or arranging of games, the city will be without a single prep football game during the week-end.

G. M. A. and Tech High play on foreign soil, while Boys' High will have an open date on its card. The Cadets play Spartanburg Friday in Spartanburg and the Smithies meet Benedictine College, Saturday afternoon in Savannah.

Other games for the week include: Decatur and Gainesville, Friday afternoon in Gainesville, and Marietta and Griffin, Friday afternoon in Griffin.

Fulton has an open date on its schedule. It will not be filled.

Commercial and University both have open dates, but efforts are being made to arrange games for Friday afternoon. It is likely that the two will meet at Spiller field to give the city its only prep game of the week.

Tech High and G. M. A. are leading the parade of high schools and prep teams over the state. The Smithies have won seven straight games, including victories over last year's state winners in Tennessee, North and South Carolina.

G. M. A., defeated by the Navy Plebes Saturday at Annapolis, has four victories over prep teams to its credit and is leading toward a city and state championship along with the Smithies.

Jennings Indignant, Cherokee After All

Redskin Determined To "Scalp" Poggi Tuesday So He Can Meet Osage Marvin.

Mr. Lewie (Sun) Jennings, the noble Cherokee, has a dirty look and maybe a dirty dirk for local wrestling promoters. He may use it Tuesday night when he wrestles here.

When he was signed for a match here last week he was cheerfully announced as an Osage Indian. When Sun Jennings appeared and saw the papers he was insulted.

It seems that the Osage Indians are just a lot of bums, or at least so it seems after talking with Lewie Jennings. The Osage tribe could not produce one real wrestler in a hundred years, says Sun Jennings. Mr. Jennings says a lot of things about the Osages that are not fit to print.

The Cherokee nation—ah, now there is a nation. Mr. Jennings points with pride to such noble red men as Tiny Roebuck and some other pals at the Haskell Institute.

Sun Jennings wishes they could find an Osage for him to wrestle. He is sure he will win from Nazareno Poggi Tuesday night in the semi-windup at the auditorium. And if he does, intends to put on the war paint and ask for a match with that Osage bum, Chief Tom Marvin.

"I will murder Poggi," said Sun Jennings. "I have just learned that this Osage, Marvin, is using a hold which he stole from the Cherokees. He brazenly calls it 'The Cherokee Chin Lock.' I will wrestle him for nothing before a crowd or behind closed doors. That is why I am going after Poggi. I want to meet this Osage."

This was no publicity stunt. Sun Jennings was hurt to the quick by the Osage label. It would not be surprising to have him scalp Henry Weber, the match-maker and the man who announced him as an Osage.

At any rate the wrestling card for Tuesday evening is looking up. The main event was already a feature. It brings Frank Speer, Georgia Tech football tackle last season and now one of the better young wrestlers, in the ring with Dick Davis, the "Rough Richard" of the mat sport.

Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters and at the Pryor Street Coffee Shop. Ladies will be admitted to any seat for 75 cents.

As one of the features for the Tuesday night match, the Georgia Tech football squad will be present to root for Frank Speer in his match with Davis. They will be the guests of promoters.

ALLEN, RITCHIE ARE MATCHED

Popular Ringmen Appear on East Point Program Thursday.

Some of the most popular ringmen of Atlanta and East Point will appear on the boxing card to be staged in East Point's new city auditorium Thursday night, beginning at 8 o'clock. It was announced yesterday by Oscar Buice, matchmaker for H. H. Martin.

Frankie Allen and John Ritchie, well known Atlanta boxers, have been matched in the first six-round bout which will climax the program of 25 rounds. Both boys believe in action from the first going, and one or the other is likely to run into a haymaker before the fight is over.

Jimmie Hanson, East Point youngster who made such a favorable impression in the show week before last, will take on Billy Wilson, two-fisted Atlanta scrapper, in another six-round go which promises to afford the crowd plenty of excitement.

East Point fans will have another opportunity to cheer on a local product when Charlie Brown swaps punches with Jimmie Crumley, Atlanta, for six rounds—or less, if one of them connects. Two Atlanta boys, Tommy Oglesby and Billy Dale, both of whom have delivered the goods before, tangle in another six-rounder. A four-round bout to be announced later will complete the card.

Mayor Ragsdale, of East Point, will referee one of the fights. Buice announces, while Tim O'Dowd, former Atlanta featherweight, will officiate in the other bouts. Fred Brigan will serve as official announcer.

BOILERS REPAIRED BY WELDING PROCESS

At this time of the year people are beginning to shiver as they get out of bed on a chilly morning. The "hobby" is getting up just a little earlier and splitting kindling to start a fire so the house will be nice and warm for the "wife."

But some, to their disgust, are finding leaks and cracks which render the steam boiler or hot air furnace unusable until repairs are made. If you have a cracked boiler section, the Bird-Potts Company, Inc., is ready to weld it for you. Through years of experience with these cast iron sections the Bird-Potts Company, Inc., has developed methods of satisfactorily repairing these sections and hundreds have been repaired and are giving first-class service.

ZABAN STORAGE CO. MAKES REDUCTIONS

Zaban Storage Company announces reductions to meet present-day conditions and at the same time increasing their service in every possible manner. The ratio of price reductions brings the cost of storage, moving, packing or shipping as well as long-distance moving well inside the price for even a lesser amount of service during and before the war.

Harry C. Zaban, president of the company, states that a great many people are using his company's storage facilities as a means of cutting expenses. Another important fact given for publication is that none of the many faithful employees have been left without positions or jobs. The Zaban Company boasts that the oldest person in the point of service and still serving faithfully started with Mr. Zaban's father some 35 years ago, and the youngest in the point of service has been with the company two years.

Zaban's motto of "Dependable" is more than just a word. It means that every service in connection with moving of household effects, either from one house or one city to another, or in taking the valuable possessions in their care for storage, that they receive personal attention from a member of the firm. This assures more efficiency and care.

Renewed Public Confidence Seen by National City Bank

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The return of public confidence in banking power and credit is seen by the National City Bank of New York as a distinct indication that better times are in the offing.

In its monthly survey of economic and financial conditions, the bank stresses the liquidity of the larger city banks which, it says, possess about 40 per cent of the country's total banking resources and are in such excellent condition that they are enabled to extend valuable assistance to smaller institutions where they can safely do so.

Discussing the epidemic of bank suspensions, the survey says: "The fundamental cause of the widespread bank failures goes back to the war-time rise of commodity prices and wages, and to the inflation of credit made possible by the rapid increase of our bank reserves, which likewise was a consequence of the war."

Prices Rise.
"Prices of everything rose, and a new level of values was established which, as the people became accustomed to it, seemed to be real and permanent. A great volume of indebtedness was erected upon the basis of these values, and when it turned out that they were inflated, the position of the debtors became a most difficult one."

"Banks, being debtors to their depositors, and subject to call for repayment upon demand or short notice, have been involved in these difficulties, particularly where their funds were employed to an imprudent extent in long-term loans or investments."

To illustrate the troubles which confronted the rural banks, especially, the survey points out that between 1910 and 1930 the total farm mortgage debt of the country rose from some $3,000,000,000 to the staggering height of $9,500,000,000. By March of this year, it is said, farm values had dropped nearly 40 per cent under the peak prices, while the value of farm products was cut nearly in half.

"Frozen" Credits.
The present embarrasment of many smaller banks, it is explained, is due to "frozen" credits. The new National Credit Corporation, with authorized funds of $1,000,000,000, has been organized for the purpose of making loans to such banks on paper which is deemed good, but which is not eligible for discount by the federal reserve banks. This, it is thought, will greatly reduce the number of bank suspensions and further assist.

Chrysler plans shortly to go on a four-day week and continue on that basis through December 31, according to the magazine Steel in its weekly review. Automotive buying is coming along, particularly in the case of the Ford, and steel work is being done steadily, and softness in raw material prices is more pronounced, the magazine says.

Steel's iron and steel composite is down 4 cents to $30.04, and the scrap composite is down 25 cents to $8.25. Finished steel remains $48.22. Structural shape awards for the week amounted to 21,042 tons, topped with 7,400 tons for New York's West Side elevated highway. In plates, 5,000 tons are to be placed soon for Colombian steamship vessels to be built by Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for the week ending October 29 show a rather severe decline from the previous week of 11.9 per cent. This decrease when adjusted shows a more than seasonal decline, which has continued for the third successive week. The preliminary figures of Bradstreet's adjusted index stands at 56.3 the previous week and 50.7 the week before.

The clearings from 47 leading cities totaled $5,781,232,000, compared with $5,371,592,000 last year, or a decline of 20.9 per cent while the same comparison the previous week showed a decline of 33.3 per cent.

Providence was the only city reporting a larger total than the previous week with no cities reporting clearings above the like week a year ago.

Canadian cities reported clearings 26.8 per cent below last year and 50.7 per cent below the previous week.

Stirrings in Steel Industry Suggest Late Fall Upturn

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Business swung into the eleventh month of the year today with stirrings in the mighty steel industry suggesting a belated autumn awakening of some consequence.

Trade conditions generally were characterized as "spotty" for the final week of October, and that month came to a close having recorded an unusually slight seasonal upswing in the volume of general business, although it originally registers the autumn peak in such important indicators as steel production, and the movement of revenue freight.

Further encouragement was also seen in the continued if irregular advance of commodity prices. In wheat markets prices reached the highest levels for the season for present delivery. While some of this advance is attributable to pool speculation, recent surveys have indicated reductions in winter wheat seedling from 20 to 25 per cent in the middle west and from 20 to 35 per cent in the south-west.

Freight car loadings disclosed a slight decrease from the previous week. Some of the reported increases, but the traffic generally was irregular. Electric power output also registered a slight setback.

Wholesale and retail trade was extremely irregular, being very much below that of last year, but somewhat better, on the whole, than the previous week. Winter merchandise movements have been below normal and those gains that were registered were generally attributed to special sales and extensive advertising.

The weather continued to warm in many sections to encourage the distribution of heavy wearing apparel.

Steady Improvement.
A slight improvement from week to week is being reported by smaller retail dealers, particularly in some of the stores handling medium and low-priced merchandise. A feature of the past week has been the demand for home furnishings and electric labor-saving devices. Merchants are beginning to prepare for the holiday trade and much emphasis will be placed on practical gifts this year with more attention being given to quality than heretofore.

The wholesale and jobbers markets have been on a hand-to-mouth basis and orders are small, compared with last year. However, orders are more frequent than formerly, due to the fact that retailers have reduced their stocks and are making a turnover of inventory. The present rule seems to be "quick sales, less profit and more advertising."

That confidence has not been altogether lost in the future wool markets is shown by the fact that various dealers during the week offered. The Boston and Philadelphia markets were comparatively quiet.

Fur sales were considerably depressed, but here again the weather was blamed to some extent. Many bargain concessions were being granted for the sake of a faster turnover. Leather markets were slow, due to the small demand from shoe manufacturers.

Some better activity was reported in the textiles trade with business equaling if not exceeding that of the previous week.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON REDUCES EARLY LOSS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Trading in cotton was fairly active during the past week, though prices were not so reactionary during the first half, but recovered somewhat toward the end of the week. At the lowest values showed losses of about 42¢, but this loss was later reduced somewhat and the decline for the week was only about 10 points or half a dollar a bale.

The reactionary trend early in the week was due to liquidation by recent buyers, due to the weakened technical position resulting from the advances of the preceding two weeks.

Another depressing influence early in the week was the weakness which developed in the stock market, but late in the week stocks and wheat both improved, influencing cotton favorably. There was also a better feeling based on improvements in the foreign markets, particularly the better demand for cloths and yarns reported by Manchester.

While the market for spot cotton was not as urgent during the past week as it has recently been, the slackening in trade was due more to the completion of October commitments rather than any lack of firmness on the part of sellers. Producers were reported to be holding much cotton off the market for higher prices and offerings were limited.

Exports picked up sharply during the week and exceeded the clearances of the corresponding week last year by a good margin. The demand for export was also reported to be larger.

Following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week, compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Closing	Year Ago
Dec.	6.87	6.52	6.63	11.10
Jan.	6.93	6.61	6.72	11.10
Mar.	7.00	6.75	6.84	11.55

SUTTON'S ANNOUNCES OUT ON SHOE REPAIRS

S. J. Bethune, manager of Sutton's New Method Shoe Rebuilding Shop, 11 Edgewood avenue, announces a sharp reduction in their shoe repairing prices. Their new price reduction is due in a large measure to the installed during the past week. With this improved machine added to their already fine equipment they can turn out work faster than ever—now being able to sew on a pair of half soles in a minute.

With this new stitching machine Sutton's is now able to repair shoes without using any nails or wire staples and guarantees there will be no metal used where it will come in contact with the feet.

The choice of two methods is offered those who patronize this shop: Sewing or vulcanizing the half soles on with the Penn-Standard process. If the sewing method is selected, the shoes can be ready in a few minutes' time, and if the vulcanizing method is preferred an overnight period is required as the soles are cemented on in this process.

Either way the workmanship and material is guaranteed.

Mr. Bethune stresses the fact that, notwithstanding the fact that they are now repairing all kinds of shoes at much lower prices than they ever have done before, they are paying the high wages and using the same high grade material they have always used.

Sutton's is a shoe rebuilding shop where all customers' shoes are only done in the best way. Shoes sent them by mail, left by out-of-town visitors or small children or servants, will receive just the same particular attention as if the owner were standing over them in person watching the work.

MATTRESS COMPANY'S BUSINESS INCREASES

The Superior Mattress Company, 835 Bankhead avenue, N. W., reports a steady increase in business month after month for the past two years. Headed by H. R. Simon, president, for the past 10 years, the firm has attained an enviable reputation for good work and prompt service. They count the good will of their satisfied customers as among their largest assets. The good work they do for their extra well-pleased customers very often brings them several more orders from among their neighbors and friends.

The Superior Mattress Company is up-to-date in making inner spring mattresses out of just ordinary mattresses. This they do by inserting a light, flexible wire coil spring and when complete it makes a very desirable and comfortable bed.

They also make over old-style feather beds into a nine-unit mattress that prevents the feathers from shifting all about in the ticking. When they return the old-style feather bed made up in this modern way, they place in the homes soft, downy mattresses that are good to sleep on.

The Superior keeps up to the times in all grades, patterns and designs of bed tickings and fancy coverings, and their outside salesmen and drivers carry a generous lot of samples for the mattress owners to select a new covering for the renovated mattress.

The Superior not only does work all the year around for the private homes, but they also do considerable work for the large boarding houses, hotels and public institutions.

They render a one-day service to all parts of Atlanta and vicinity. They are so well equipped by workmen and machinery that a phone call to Hemlock 9274 reaching them by 9 a. m. will permit them to call at your home, submit their large variety of samples, take away your old mattress, and return it the same day soft, fresh and clean with the selected covering, in plenty of time for the bed to be made up for the night.
